

Forest investments in the Baltics

Field trip to Lithuania and Latvia 6 - 7 September

If you consider investing in forestry, the opportunities in the Baltics are good. Here, the price for an acre of forest is considerably lower than is the case in Northern Europe. Forest investment in the Baltics provides a long-term and stable return and the risk is low. The well-developed infrastructure also ensures access to the global market. The Baltic forest industry is characterised by state-of-the-art sawmills and veneer factories, exporting globally. Travel with us to Latvia and Lithuania to experience the opportunities:
